

Hello, I'm Ameca!

Contents

- Vocabulary
- Questions without auxiliary verbs

Vocabulary

Haiku Poems → Poemas japoneses

Joy → Alegria

Surprise → Surpresa

Rude → Grosseiro

Confusion → Confusão

Hateful → Ódio

Anger → Raiva

Disrespectful → Desrespeitoso

Sadness → Tristeza

Questions without auxiliary verbs

In formal English, questions usually have auxiliary verbs: Do / Does / Did...

Formal example: Did you write this book?

In informal English (especially in WhatsApp or casual chats), people often skip the auxiliary:

Informal example: You wrote this book? ✅

This is understood perfectly, but it's not grammatically formal.

Use this type of sentence only in informal conversations. Never use it in tests, exams, or formal situations.

If the wh question (Who, What, Which, How many, etc.) is the subject of the sentence, we don't need an auxiliary (do / does / did).

Who created America? ✅

Who did create America? ❌